Elliott Greenleaf & Siedzikowski, P.C. and its clients congratulate seventeen of its lawyers selected by the statewide poll of judges and lawyers as Pennsylvania "Super Lawyers." The Firm has among the highest per capita Super Lawyers, recognizing the excellent reputation of the Firm's Blue Bell, Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, Harrisburg and Reading offices throughout the Mid-Atlantic region.

The Firm represents Fortune 500 companies, governmental entities, entrepreneurs, privately and publicly held businesses, individuals, trade associations, non-profit organizations and unions. In 2003 and 2004, it was the only Pennsylvania firm with less than 50 lawyers selected by the Fortune 250 as "go to" counsel for commercial litigation and employment matters.

CONCENTRATION Its nationally recognized trial and appellate lawyers and business counselors represent clients in business matters, health care, insurance, employment, constitutional issues affecting business and government, civil rights, trade secrets, major personal injury, professional sports, environmental, banking, securities and the rights of investors and fiduciaries.

LEADING THE WAY

TRIAL COUNSEL The Firm practices in federal and state trial and appellate courts, bankruptcy and multi-district actions and regulatory proceedings, and is regularly involved in challenging legal and business matters. Against Inside Edition, it won the first federal court injunction against media stalking since Jacqueline Kennedy in 1972. The Firm's lawyers have been described in the press as "titans" of the Bar and include one of the "three most feared heavyweights in the Philadelphia legal community." The Firm's Chairman & CEO John M. Elliott is repeatedly recognized as one of Pennsylvania's top lawyers.

CONTINUING SUCCESS In 2005 alone, the Firm won an injunction against a defecting attorney who violated his employment agreement; defended one of the nation's largest managed care companies in a trade defamation case in federal court in Colorado; defended one of the region's largest healthcare providers in a variety of significant insurance matters and litigations; won an order protecting one of the region's largest bank's trade secrets and confidential information; obtained multi-million dollar damages and substantial equitable relief for a class of persons who were harmed by identity theft and improper access to their credit reports under federal and state law; during trial, won a seven figure settlement for a prison health care service provider against a competitor; and, won a multi-million dollar settlement for an executive of a publicly traded company.
